FP8 is approaching: The political message in the background and the modifications scheduled

"The new framework programme of the European Union is in preparation. It will be the eighth since the foundation of the EU research collaboration in 1984. In the position paper “Europe 2020” it is defined that the public authorities should promote the private sector as well, so that ideas have an increased chance to get on the market." Read more

The new FP8 research funding aims and conditions follow the changing conditions not only in Europe but in the world. Staying up to date with all the alterations in all research funding initiatives requires professional competence, overview and time. Our aim is to assist our partners and customers in identifying the corresponding opportunities and launching and managing successfully research projects.
